I never post or use social media. But the fact that some Rich Elite (CITY BARBECUE) sued OHIO CITY BBQ restaurant for using the name "Ohio City". Now that's just disgusting. I read up reviews of City Barbecue and noted that one person got a Snail in their collard Greens at CITY BARBECUE BEACHWOOD. SHAME ON CITY BARBECUE AND It's OWNER RICK MALIR

We respect small business owners, especially barbecue joints: after all, our founder started City Barbeque in his driveway and garage. However, we have spent the past 21 years building our company's name and reputation, so it is imperative to protect our trademark. There is confusion in the marketplace between our two companies and it would be beneficial for both of us to have a clearer distinction in names. We have offered to assist Ohio City BBQ financially in modifying their name —we want them to succeed.

Among the chain bbq joints, the smoked meats are fine. Unexplainably, they filed a trademark infringement against Ohio City BBQ, which seems like a bully tactic against the small business owners in Ohio City.

They inflate their prices through DoorDash to make extra money. Some things are $8 more through DoorDash than they are if you go there yourself. Ridiculous. Also another chain bullying the small people by trying to sue Ohio City BBQ over their name. Don't support these clowns.

A little dry for my taste. Greens need some work.other then that food is decent . Would have tried again until I seen the lawsuit that they have just started against a fellow competitor. A small one location business against a chain of locations. Ohio City BBQ and City BBQ are two complete different names, different locations, different style. No comparison and should be no confusion especially being that Ohio City BBQ is located in Ohio city hense the name. And the opposite side of town Memphis style bbq,minority ran and owned business. Really sad that instead of improving your food,image and service you attempt to take down a competitor that has higher ratings. There should not be any confusion with customers especially if they have tried both restaurants food.

We respect small business owners, especially barbecue joints: after all, our founder started City Barbeque in his driveway and garage. However, we have spent the past 21 years building our company's name and reputation, so it is imperative to protect our trademark. There is confusion in the marketplace between our two companies and it would be beneficial for both of us to have a clearer distinction in names. We have offered to assist Ohio City BBQ financially in modifying their name —we want them to succeed.
